CN-A-PREVIEW

The Industrial business unit continues to be a strong performer within the wider Manheim auctions business in Australia, but there are looming clouds for much of the industrial sector due to weather patterns, economic uncertainty, interest rates, and the reduced instant asset write-off cap.

After two very strong years for agriculture, the Australian government expects broadacre farm incomes to fall as much as 41% in 2023–24 due in part to drier conditions from the recently declared El Niño event, and lower commodity prices.

We note the continuing decline in new tractor sales across 40hp to 200hp models in Australia – down 23% year-to-date according to the Tractor and Machinery Association after a few bumper years, with 2024 likely to see the quieter market continue. Further, there's been a noted uptick in producers seeking sell down assets which should in time see more supply of second-hand tractors, headers and tillers, and a subsequent knock-on to robust prices. Expect to see increasing availability of older and higher-usage assets.

The civil construction sector is being impacted by the ongoing government review into its infrastructure investment pipeline, as such buyer demand for civil equipment remains mixed. Quality loaders are very much in demand, whilst excavator pricing is softening. Buyer enquiry and pricing for mining class equipment is trending upward in the last 6 weeks.

New heavy trucks sales are up 18.8% this year (to the end of September) but parts shortages and biosecurity-linked quarantine issues linger, new build lead time remains in the 12-18 month window. Kenworth lead the new truck sales volume, with Volvo and Isuzu next in line.

Many trailer and body builders also have long backlogs – as such, demand for late model transport assets remains strong now and into the foreseeable future, auction prices remain strong. On the other hand, older transport assets are getting slightly more difficult to move and prices are plateauing, finance approvals are becoming more rigid.
